Scarlett Whincup invites country fans onto the dancefloor with “Them Boots”

A modern country single developed alongside its own line dance - with fans invited to be part of the official music video.

Made for the fans, made for the dancefloor

“Them Boots” is an upbeat country release built with the line dancing community in mind. The track was developed in the studio with specialist Dobro, pedal steel and electric guitar players, bringing distinctive country textures and drive to the recording.

Crucially, Scarlett worked with Alex Wise of Wise Moves, choreographer of the line dance “Them Boots”, during the song’s creation. The music and choreography were developed together so that the arrangement would work naturally on the dancefloor.

Fans are part of the release

Scarlett is inviting fans and line dancers to learn “Them Boots”, record themselves performing the dance and submit their clips for inclusion in the official music video. The aim is to celebrate the people who support her music and bring the worldwide country and line dance community together.

Release and promotion

“Them Boots” is released independently on 23 October 2026. The campaign includes worldwide radio outreach through a professional radio promoter and Scarlett’s own direct submissions, alongside advance reviews, playlist pitching, social media activity, fan participation and live performances. Radio stations are welcomed to play the track ahead of release.
